Description
Other VPN apps I used before (TunnelBear, Freedome VPN) show a button for disconnecting directly from the notification. It would be nice if strongSwan had the same option.

I wonder if that could lead to accidental clicks. I guess we'd have to add a confirmation dialog. It also makes the notification way bigger (about 1.5 x the height of the current notification, at least on Android 7). But perhaps we can add it as an option.

On Android 7, the buttons are only shown if the notification is "expanded" by dragging down, so they don't use extra space, which also prevents accidental clicks.

That's true, however, the top notification is shown expanded. Anyway, I added this with a confirmation dialog.
